

4 approaches for
small international schools
to flourish with a
DEIJ consultant

DEIJ it's what we DO

1. Take intentional time to ensure that your school context is understood through rich, exploratory meetings which include key members of the educational team.

2. Recognise that popular structures for DEIJ work were not designed for small international schools. Appropriately consider your scale, cultural context, and accreditation requirements with your consultant.

3. Ensure the success of your work by collaborating on an analytical audit of key data and relevant impact indicators which enable you to monitor your progress and adjust as necessary.

4. Review the success and failures of previous actions and ensure the learning from each meeting with your consultant informs your next steps.
